WOODSIDE VOLUNTEERS AT DISMANTLE

Woodside are continuously working hard towards Sustainable Development Goals* through their day to day work practices and volunteer programs with Volunteering WA. Riding to work is highly encouraged by Woodside, who provide employees with amazing 'End of Trip' facilities for a secure place to store their bike and to freshen up before starting work in the morning. This aligns with Sustainable Development Goal 11- Make cities inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable, which encourages the use of bikes, walking or taking public transport to keep our cities air clean. To support this goal further, on the 24th of May a volunteer team from Woodside spent a half day volunteering at Dismantle.

Dismantle are a local organisation that focus on empowering at-risk youth through mentoring and bicycle mechanic workshops. One of their programs called Bike Rescue engages with young people who learn to learn how to repair two bikes, donating one bike to charity and keeping the other. The Woodside team started the morning sorting tyres and labeling the flat ones, sanding down frames so they can be spray painted and removing pedals and cranks.

Following morning tea, the volunteer manager, Georgina, let the team test ride some of the bikes from the Bike Rescue program. After conducting safety checks which included; fitting the bikes with a bell, front and back reflectors and checking the breaks worked, the team took their bikes out onto the street to give them a spin.

All the staff at Dismantle were extremely grateful for the hard work of the Woodside team, explaining that without volunteers such as themselves employees would have to complete the extra work in their own time.
